POWER WITH

ABOUT THE SHOW

Power With, a lyrical installation of recent work by Lyndsey Scott, celebrates Womens' History Month by paying playful homage to women's wiles, wounds, wombs, and wisdom. The work dances across walls ~ pulsing between pop affirmations + collage portraits + sacred geometries + plant medicine. Captured in paint, photography, handmade books, shrinky-dinks, and things-found-on-the-forest-floor, these works live as by-products of dynamic inquiry that invite viewers to stand inside the questions too: what am I here to embody?

ABOUT THE ARTIST

Born & raised in Rantoul, Lyndsey Scott is no stranger to finding the miraculous in the mundane. After receiving her BFA in Painting at the UIUC in 2002, she fled to St. Louis for a decade of community art & rambunctious collaboration, letting kids nurse back to health a carefree creativity that art school bruised, and letting south side streets be the hard Knox school of social justice. One healing crisis, two superhero bike tours, a yoga teacher training, and permaculture design course later, she followed insistent gut-tugs home to rekindle the home fire.
