

UCIMC OPEN HOUSE AND SKILLSHARE

+ UC REALLY, REALLY FREE MARKET AND FOOD NOT BOMBS

Saturday, March 13, 11AM to 3PM

Open House/Skillshare

Representative members from each working group of the IMC will be available to help people in the Urbana-Champaign get information about becoming involved in Print/Public i, WRFU, Production, Books to Prisoners, The Bike Project, and Shows. Members of the community will also have the opportunity to participate in the Skillshare where individuals are able to learn from others and share their own skills.

The Really, Really Free Market (RRFM)

The RRFM is exactly what the title states—a market in which anyone can provide items or services completely free of charge. It is a place where anyone can bring anything they don't want and would like to give away for others to make use of. Participants bring anything from clothes or CD's to furniture or bicycles. Some people prefer to provide services or talents rather than items, such as haircuts or entertainment. It is a great way to get the community together to share gifts and have a good time. As they say—"one persons trash is another's treasure."

Food Not Bombs (FNB)

Giving away free vegetarian and vegan food to those who need it most, Food Not Bombs is a loose-knit group of people hoping to use surplus foods from grocery stores, bakeries, and markets that would have gone to waste to fight hunger. Started in the early 1980s, the all-volunteer global movement protests war and poverty through serving the free surplus food in public places like parks.
