

Community Education Meeting: The Health Exchange in Illinois

What you need to know!

National health reform legislation became law in March 2010, and various components of the law are being enacted on an on-going basis. One key component of national health reform, which will be enacted in 2014, is the health insurance exchange. The health insurance exchange, also known as the competitive health care market place, is a tool consumers use to purchase health insurance. Health insurance plans in the exchange are regulated by the government and must meet certain standards of coverage and quality. Join us for this important community education meeting on the health insurance exchange in the state of Illinois and get the information you need as a consumer.
